

Take-Home Points

- DCMF is a method for mapping a second-quantized Hamiltonian to a classical Hamiltonian.
 - For the Landauer current and Anderson populations, we get good time-dependent results. For the Holstein and Anderson steady-states, we get approximate results.
-
- DCMF might be useful on systems for which no fully quantum method currently exists.
 - DCMF might be applied to any problem written in terms of second-quantization.

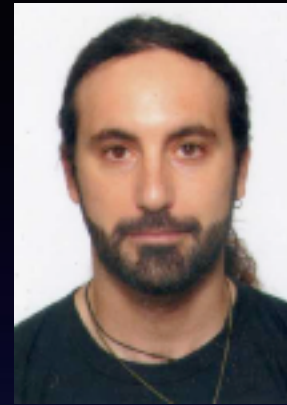

Thanks!

Eran
Rabani

Bill
Miller

Tal
Levy

Guy
Cohen

Funding/Computational Resources

US-Israel Binational Science Foundation

Tel Aviv University Center for Nanoscience and Nanotechnology

NSF, DOE, NERSC

Landauer: DWHS, Levy, Cohen, Rabani, Miller. JCP 134, 164103 (2011).

Holstein: DWHS, Cohen, Rabani. MolPhys 110, 743 (2012).

Anderson: DWHS, Cohen, Levy, Miller, Rabani. In prep.